Many of the ancients appear more original than they would be thought, if preceding and contemporary works were still extant. In like manner, various current ideas and metaphors are employed by some modern authors, who, in case the productions of other writers were to perish, might appear to posterity possessed of considerable originality. The later we live in the history of the world, the more scope and materials there are for the exercise of genius. Language is properly the servant of thought, but not unfrequently becomes its master. The conceptions of a feeble writer are greatly modified by his style. A man of vigorous powers makes his style bend to his conceptions. There is an ancient adage, Learning is better than house or lands. Whether the saying arose in times of comparative ignorance, when learning was rare, and therefore fetched...
