By Lord Thomas Macaulay

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 203 x 127 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Thomas Babington Macaulay (1800 - 1859), was born in Leicestershire. His father, Zachary Macaulay, after spending some time in Jamaica, became an activist, and was a cofounder of the Anti-Slavery Society. At Trinity College, Cambridge, he became interested in utilitarianism and was influenced by the ideas of Jeremy Bentham. After he left university Macaulay became a lawyer and a writer, contributing abundantly to the Edinburgh Review. Macaulay carried out his father's stance by abolishing the British slave-trade in the West Indies. Yet, Zachary Macaulay -the father-heavily indebted sought his son's help. Thomas accepted a lucrative post on the Supreme Council of India, which enabled him to pay off his father's debts. In 1839 Macaulay was appointed Secretary of War. At the end of his term, he dedicated himself to writing, and soon got started writing his History of England. The success of the History made him as revered a writer as Sir Walter Scott and Charles Dickens; and internationally the History volumes were translated into German, Polish, Danish, Swedish, Italian, French,...
